Open and Permanent Call for Papers: Culture, Practice and European Policy

Description: An international, double-blind peer reviewed journal

We kindly invite you to submit papers to the interdisciplinary journal Culture, Practice and European Policy. Culture, Practice and European Policy (CPEP) is a peer reviewed platform for publishing research-based articles predominantly dealing with research into the multiplicity of social processes, interactions and policies relating to Europeanization and international encounters in Europe. Empirical, theoretical and conceptual texts of significant originality will be considered for publication. CPEP welcomes contributions that seek to enhance understanding of social processes relating to internationalization, internationally relevant practices and further trans-national activities and processes in Europe. Contributions may also be based on observations in settings outside of Europe that are (e.g. historically, politically, culturally) connected to European practices. Texts may relate, inter alia, to the fields of internationalization of businesses and education, to research into trans-cultural encounters and communication, to migration, to the formation of attitudes towards Europe, or to comparative studies on social inequality and welfare. All methodological approaches are welcomed. CPEP publishes at least semiannually.

Submission

Authors may submit any time. Submitted manuscripts must be written in English. For manuscript and submission policy please visit: <https://www.uni-flensburg.de/soziologie/publikationen/culture-practice-and-european-policy/>

CPEP welcomes submissions of original research papers, but also invites submission of essays, speeches, conference and research reports and commentaries.
